

GATEWAY

What is Gateway?

The Artemis Program will land the first woman and person of color on the Moon for scientific discovery and to enable human missions to Mars. An important part of Artemis is NASA's lunar-orbiting station called Gateway. Gateway is where astronauts from many countries will eat, sleep, rest, conduct science experiments, and get ready for their trips to the lunar surface.

The first two pieces of Gateway are the Power and Propulsion Element, or PPE, and the Habitation and Logistics Outpost, or HALO, where astronauts will live. PPE and HALO will launch together from Earth to lunar orbit.
